

Pickets Again Disrupt Street Car Operation In Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh, Sept. 28 (AP)—Operation of Pittsburgh's street cars was completely halted early this morning for the second time within 48 hours as a result of picketing by members of a striking power union.

Headquarters of the AFL-Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees said efforts to operate the cars, which had maintained partial service through the early hours of the night, were abandoned after pickets surrounded all 12 car barns of the Pittsburgh Railways company. A spokesman for the union said a mass meeting for all members had been called for 9 a. m. today at which the union would be asked to decide whether to pass through the picket lines of the Independent Association of Employees of the Duquesne Light company.

Ignore Union Order

Members of the independent union, in picketing the barns, disregarded a warning issued last evening by the AFL-Pittsburgh Central Labor Union which said it would "not tolerate any interference" of street cars and buses operated by members of its affiliates.

Meanwhile, another session of the apparently stalemated wage contract negotiations between the struck Duquesne Light company and the independent union of its employees was scheduled for this afternoon, with a mass meeting of the union called for 7:30 p. m. tonight to vote on "any offer the company may make."

The power union has given no reason for halting the street cars but apparently it acted for one of two reasons possibly both: (1) Current for the cars is supplied by the Duquesne Light company and (2) both Duquesne Light and Pittsburgh Railways are subsidiaries of the Philadelphia company.

Fearful Violence

A spokesman for the railways company said police protection has not been asked. He said the AFL-motormen made no effort to cross the independent union's picket lines and that operators, when asked why they had left their cars said:

"We don't want to get hurt."

The spokesman added motormen in all cases drove the cars into the barns before abandoning them.

The AFL-Central Labor union, with a membership of 175,000, which had supported the Duquesne light workers in their battle against an anti-strike injunction, issued a statement saying "we now serve notice on them (the strikers) that the AFL will not tolerate any interference by them with any companies using power with which we have agreements."

The street car men and bus drivers are members of an AFL union. The statement continued:

Must Give Service

"We propose to x x x provide the public and transportation facilities so long as there is power. It is the responsibility of our affiliates to man transportation facilities required by the AFL and CIO members and the public to go to and come from work."

AFL officials did not indicate what steps they would take to restore interrupted bus and street car service.

Anthony J. Fiedoroff, regional director of the CIO, who also supported the anti-injunction fight, said the CIO hoped the conduct of Independent Union President George L. Mueller "will not embarrass the legitimate labor movement, or we will be compelled to divorce ourselves completely in supporting him."

The union seeks a 20 per cent pay raise, which would boost the average base rate from $1.18 to $1.41; the company offered five per cent.

Accuses Unions Of Being Greedy

Dr. W. O. H. Garman, Pa., Sept. 28 (AP)—Dr. W. O. H. Garman of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., secretary of the American Council of Christian churches, says labor unions "are proving they can be more greedy, ruthless, selfish and tyrannical than management ever was."

He told the council's fifth annual convention last night that radical anti-Christian labor groups "are in control of many" labor organizations and "the unions will either have to be cleaned up or Christians will have to break with unions."

"Labor," declared Dr. Garman, "will most certainly be sold down the river by its radical Communist leaders and will awaken some day when it is too late to find itself the helpless slave of a despotic Communist dictator and shorn by him of every advantage and liberty now enjoyed."

EIGHT OUT OF 18 BRIDGES IN NEED OF REPAIR

Out of 18 bridges inspected Friday by the Adams county commissioners, eight were found to be in need of repairs, according to Clarence C. Smith, chief clerk. Most of the repairs were of more or less minor nature. The other ten bridges were found to be in good condition.

Gilliland's bridge over a branch of Rock Creek, between Cumberland and Straban township, needs repairs to the stone wall, the commissioners said.

Repairs to the roof of a wood covered bridge known as the Stone Jug No. 1 bridge over Conewago Creek in Butler township are needed.

Other Damage

Roof and wing walls of a covered bridge designated as Stone Jug No. 2, a short distance from the Stone Jug No. 1 bridge need repairs.

The commissioners found that repairs were needed to the roof of a wood covered structure known as Deardorff's bridge, over Opossum Creek in Butler township. Two new planks were also needed.

The Phil Weaver bridge in Straban township over Beaver Run needs new plank, it was reported. Spangler's bridge over Bermudian Creek in Tyrone township needs repairs to the abutments. It is a wood covered bridge.

Bridge No. 103, not otherwise designated, in Menallen township, which spans a branch of the Conewago, is in need of a new railing. New planks are needed on the flooring of Roth's Mill bridge in Butler township over Conewago Creek.

TITO'S ACTION RILES YANKEES

Washington, Sept. 28 (AP)—Diplomatic officials were apprehensive today that forced closing of an American library in Belgrade jeopardizes the whole flow of U. S. information into Soviet-dominated eastern Europe.

The state department drafted a note to the Yugoslav government urging removal of the ban on the United States Information service, on the ground that the "fundamental and basic democratic issue" of freedom is involved.

But reports from Belgrade said the Tito administration is intent upon keeping the information service closed. Officials here saw a possibility that other Soviet-dominated regimes may follow suit.

The United States maintains information services in Russia and 60 other countries to distribute such matter as American books, magazines, official speeches and documents.

Under Secretary of State Clayton said at a news conference yesterday American officials "find it very difficult to believe that Yugoslavia really means to deny to its people the basic freedom for which the American people with their allies undertook the war against Fascism."

The reading room in downtown Belgrade was closed Thursday after the Yugoslav government had accused the United States Information service of engaging in "anti-Yugoslav activities."

ASK CLEMENCY FOR CONCHEYS

Ocean City, N. J., Sept. 28 (AP)—Passage of a resolution calling upon President Truman to grant a general amnesty for 6,000 conscientious objectors sentenced to federal prisons during the war was looked for today by the New Jersey conference of the Methodist church.

Dr. Paul A. Frederick of the First Methodist church of New Brunswick, sponsor of the resolution, said passage was considered certain when the proposal comes up today. Last year, he said, the conference approved special appropriations to help conscientious objectors meet expenses in labor camps.

Action also was deferred, until Monday, on a resolution proposing that the conference purchase a former CCC camp near New Lisbon to be used as a center for education, evangelistic and other gatherings.

K. M. Merritt of Elizabeth, the Rev. F. A. Demaris, of Little Silver, Dr. H. D. Huzzmer, of Merchantville, Alvin C. Poffenberger, of Atlantic City, and Dr. Charles S. Swope, of West Chester, Pa., were elected to four-year terms as trustees of Pennington school for boys.

The Women's Society of Christian service reelected Mrs. O. C. F. Janke, of Bordentown as conference president. Others elected were: Mrs. Thomas F. P. Eden, of Woodstown, vice president; Mrs. John C. Elder, and Mrs. Benjamin F. Allgood, of Woodbury, treasurer.

Announcement was made of the retirement of the Rev. G. T. Hillman, of Millville, N. J., now on leave of absence.

Here And There News Collected At Random

For four days during the German's drive into the Ardennes the 28th Division, Pennsylvania's own, fought the rear-guard action for the whole United States 1st Army, according to an article in the current Saturday Evening Post.

In a piece entitled "They Took the Nazis' Sunday Punch," former war correspondent Ivan H. Peterman tells how the Bloody Bucket Division caught the full impact of the Battle of the Bulge and slowed it—but at a high price.

"We had to absorb the first shock and try to slow the enemy while First Army prepared a new line," Maj. Gen. Norman D. Cota, commander of the 28th, is quoted. "Our troops were like guards and tackles in football. If we could slow up the play until the secondary defense diagnosed it and got set for the tackle, we served our purpose. I ordered Colonels Rudder, Fuller and Nelson, commanding the Hundred and Ninth, Hundred and Tenth and Hundred and Twelfth regiments, to hold the line as long as they could, to fight from the flanks. The Hundred and Tenth in the center was overpowered; the other two swung back slowly, like a double door. We gained four days' time. I think the Twenty-eighth did a job."

Every day will be "D-Day" for the army of chefs preparing to board the Queen Elizabeth, world's largest liner, scheduled to sail on her maiden postwar luxury voyage October 16th. They'll have the terrific job of cooking over 10,000 meals a day for passengers and crew on the 83,673-ton ship.

To keep the five kitchens of the Queen Elizabeth going will require the services of a 130-man staff. And that doesn't include another 130 specially-trained people to man the larders, confectioners', bakers', salad and (Please Turn to Page 2)

May Bar Yugoslavia As Italian Treaty Signatory

By ROBERT EUNSON

Paris, Sept. 28 (AP)—A Peace Conference commission adopted today an American proposal to bar Yugoslavia from the privileges of a signatory to the Italian treaty if she persisted in her announced refusal to sign the pact.

The Italian political and territorial commission adopted the "French line" as the boundary between Italy and Yugoslavia, and Marshal Tito's delegation promptly announced Yugoslavia would "not sign the peace treaty with Italy nor withdraw her army from north-western Istria."

A Yugoslav proposal to turn the whole boundary question back to the foreign ministers was voted down, and the United States quickly proposed the new amendment, stating that the terms of the treaty should "not benefit any state mentioned in the preamble as allied and associated powers unless such state becomes a signatory of the treaty."

A Yugoslav delegate vigorously attacked the American proposal as "a threat and an attempt to intimidate Yugoslavia."

HOSPITAL ANNEX TO BE FINISHED BY EARLY 1947

Improvements at the Warner hospital are "beginning to take shape" members of the board of directors were told at their meeting in the nurses' home Friday night, but completion of the work will not come until sometime after the first of the year.

Much of the meeting was devoted to discussion of the progress made so far on the various improvements including the landscaping and the new Musselman annex.

The installation of the new driveway and parking lot and the terracing in front of the hospital has been nearly completed and the board decided that in view of the traffic flow on the parking lot and driveway one-way traffic regulations will be put into effect. Eventually, when the debris in connection with the construction of the new annex is cleared away, the present rear parking lot will be connected to the new driveway by constructing a road around the nurses home, the board decided. When that is completed one way driving will be enforced throughout the hospital driveways. The old parking lot to the rear of the building will be used for doctors, nurses and other hospital uses only. Visitors will park in the lot in front of the building, the board decided.

Interior Work Underway

Work in the interior of the Musselman annex has been started and will be completed probably sometime in January, the board was told.

Methods of coordinating the two plants and the need of enlarging the personnel at the hospital as a result of the use of the new building were discussed at some length.

The board decided to investigate the possibility of using sections of the present hospital building where the heating plant is now located as the temporary site for the new deep therapy equipment. The present heating plant will be removed when the new plant is installed in the Musselman annex. The first shipment of parts of the deep therapy equipment has already arrived, the board was told, and is being stored until such time as space is found for the machinery.

Hospital Rates Go Up

The rapidly advancing cost of maintaining the hospital led the board to increase rates starting October 1 for patients at the institution. Ward rates were increased from $3.50 to $4 a day and private room rates jumped from $5 to $6 and from $6 to $7 a day. The discussion held in connection with the raise in the rates revealed that the members of the board had hoped to avoid such an action but that increased costs for all medical supplies, food, and all other costs forced the increase.

While the rates were jumped the amount of increase did not cover the entire added expense to the hospital, members pointed out, and every effort has been made to keep the cost of hospitalization to the individual patient as low as possible.

Eight-Hour Duty

A change in the shifts of nurses to provide for an eight-hour day was authorized by the board. The change is to be made as soon as sufficient personnel can be secured to allow, with the present overload, a sufficient number of nurses to be on duty at all times under an eight-hour day. At present the nurses work 12 hours a day.

The change is in line with the custom in other hospitals throughout this section, board members said.

An emergency lighting system to serve both the annex and present hospital will be secured, the board decided.

The building committee was authorized to sell the present heating plant in the nurses' home as soon as the heating system being installed in the Musselman annex is ready. The new plant will provide heat for all of the hospital buildings including the nurses' home and the two old plants will be removed. The nurses' home plant will be offered for sale before being disassembled in order that prospective buyers may better view the installation.

Record Summer Business

Patients at the hospital continued to arrive in great numbers during the past two months, reports presented the board disclosed. There were 306 admissions in July and 263 in August. An average of 65 patients per day was reported for July and 60 for August. During the two month period a total of 107 babies was born in the hospital. Thirty-nine accident cases were treated during July and 19 in August.

GREECE MAY BE FLAMING MATCH TO WAR

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

The return of King George of Greece from exile to his strife-torn kingdom may provide the test of exactly how much give-and-take there is between Russia and Britain in their battle for zones of influence—a conflict in which America also has interests to safeguard.

Greece long has been John Bull's key outpost on the edge of the Balkan peninsula. This hardy little state—whose topography is more perpendicular than horizontal—sticks into the side of the Balkans like a plum in a pudding. All the rest of the peninsula, excepting European Turkey, is solidly within Russia's new zone of influence.

"Flaming Match"

Strategic Greece therefore becomes a mighty atom in the Russo-British maneuvering for position and right now it is a flaming match in a powder plant.

The question is whether Moscow will concede John Bull his place in Greece, or will insist on including it within Russia's sphere. There we have in miniature the momentous problem which has divided all Europe into two camps: How far Russia intends to go in its expansion?

He who knows the answer to that also knows whether another world war is likely.

But to return to our muttoms: Greece is in the throes of civil war between supporters of the British-backed king and Leftist elements, including many Communists. The main fighting is in the north among the mountains along the Albanian and Yugoslav borders. The Royalist Greek government charges that Communistic elements from Albania and Yugoslavia are the main-spring of the revolt.

Fight Red Influence

The Leftist retort to this is that Britain is maintaining a large military force in Greece and that the recent plebiscite which recalled King George was dominated by British influence. John Bull merely shrugs his shoulders and says that his troops are there at the invitation of the Greek government.

The return of King George to his throne certainly isn't likely to ease the situation. It really means the consolidation of the Royalist forces to carry on the battle against the Red attempt to overthrow the monarchy.

The immediate threat is that the civil war might develop into hostilities between Greece and the Yugoslav-Albanian Leftist governments. One need not dilate on such a contingency to demonstrate the terrific threat which it would establish to world peace.

EMERGENCY IN MOVIE STRIKE

Hollywood, Sept. 28 (P)—A state of emergency, proclaimed by the sheriff, existed in Los Angeles county today as the movies' latest labor dispute entered its third day.

Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz called in about 150 additional special deputies to police the gates of the major film studios, which are being picketed by the conference of studio unions in their jurisdictional dispute with the rival international alliance of theatrical stage employees. Both are AFL groups.

A fierce melee, in which about 200 persons engaged, broke out yesterday at the gates of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, one of the largest. It required half an hour for Culver City police and sheriff's deputies to quell the rioting, in which pickets smashed automobile windows, ripped out ignition wires and tried to upset several cars. Twenty-three pickets were arrested.

Warner brothers obtained a court order limiting gate pickets to eight, and workers dispersed. M-G-M shortly afterward obtained a similar order.

The dispute, recurrence of one which led to a 34-week strike last year, arose from refusal of CSU workmen to handle sets which they claim had been built by IATSE members.

Studies Take Over For Mr. Lewis

Washington, Sept. 28 (P)—Two mild-mannered men who have been at John L. Lewis' elbow for the past quarter century took over leadership of the United Mine Workers today while he recovers from an operation.

Their first job is to run the United Mine Workers' 29th convention, which begins Tuesday in Atlantic City. Lewis was ready to leave for there when stricken with appendicitis.

His operation in a Washington hospital yesterday made it almost certain he would miss his first Miners' convention since 1912, although his doctor said he came through in "excellent condition."

Vice-President John O'Leary, a big, slow-moving fellow, and Secretary-Treasurer Thomas Kennedy, a ruddy, cigar-chewing, one-time socialist, who served four years as lieutenant governor of Pennsylvania, moved into the driver's seat.

THOUSANDS OF GREEKS GREET RETURNING KING

Athens, Sept. 28 (P)—Hundreds of thousands of cheering Greeks lined the streets of Athens today in a tumultuous welcome to King George II of the Hellenes, returning to his throne after five years of wartime exile.

Fighters and bombers roared overhead as the royal party made its triumphant entry into the capital which was bathed in brilliant sunlight. The solemn march rode in an open car.

The twice-exiled king, who arrived last night from England, landed at the quay at Faleroon Bay. A slow, four-mile procession took him past the masses in the heart of the city to the magnificent Greek cathedral, where Archbishop Damaskinos, now relinquishing his duties as regent, conducted a solemn Te Deum service.

Attending the service were members of the dominant royalist party's opposition, including former Premier George Papandreu, Panagiotis Kanellopoulos and Sophocles Venizelos.

King Well Guarded

The thousands of police and gendarmes who guarded the monarch's route had difficulty restraining the crowds, particularly in historic Constitution square, just in front of the Parliament building and facing the unknown soldier's tomb. The square was so jammed that it was impossible to move.

Most Athens newspapers told of the king's arrival and reception in great headlines, but the communist newspapers treated it with reserve. One communist newspaper carried a single column headline and another a two-column headline. The communist press referred to the monarch as George, and did not use the title.

Greeks began lining the streets at dawn to welcome their sovereign, summoned back to his throne from the second exile of his reign by Greek voters in a plebiscite September 1.

Thousands of police and gendarmes were posted along the line of march, carrying out elaborate precautions to safeguard the life of the 56-year-old monarch as he returned to a land torn by civil strife and fierce border fighting in the north.

WOMAN FACES MURDER COUNT

Princess Anne, Md., Sept. 28 (P)—Mrs. Iva P. Krumholz, 40-year-old Princess Anne Tavern keeper, pleaded innocent yesterday to a first degree murder indictment and was granted a change of venue "because the state felt it could not secure a fair and impartial trial in Princess Anne."

Circuit Judge Levin Claude Bailey granted the request by state's Attorney Prentiss W. Evans that she be removed to Snow Hill for trial in the Worcester county circuit on a charge that she shot and killed Rollin Roscoe Riley, 38, of Vineland, N. J.

Ross J. Abbott, 24, who was arraigned at the same time before the Somerset county circuit on a first degree murder indictment, also pleaded innocent.

Evans said Abbott, accused of shooting 20-year-old Pansy Twigg July 19 after she jilted him, would go on trial here Monday. The Worcester county criminal docket is scheduled for Oct. 21-25.

Riley was found June 7 shot through the head in his Princess Anne apartment, where he stayed on poultry buying trips. Mrs. Krumholz was arrested 18 days later in Cincinnati, O., by the FBI.

Things Of The Soil

Wage War On Small Gullies

Scattered up and down the Appalachian region are millions of acres of once-valuable farm land now ruined or badly damaged because a small gully was allowed to become a big gully. In most cases a single shovelful of soil, a forkful of straw, or some other small deterrent at the beginning would have saved these immeasurable wastes. No farmer can prevent gullies starting; but every farmer can be ashamed of big gullies.

Fall is an excellent time to start war against gullies. This is particularly true in wheat fields, where corn has left land bare and in places where loose soil is left to the mercies of winter to come. In planning means to reduce soil washing it is important to understand the one prominent phase of effective erosion control—The major task is to reduce the speed of run-off water. Of course, every farmer should plan to keep his soil so balanced with organic matter that considerable water is absorbed. But there is always a surplus that runs off. The speed of this surplus run-off must be checked as much as possible.

The importance of this is better understood by studying the three laws of running water:

1. If the rate of flow is doubled, the erosive power is increased four times.
2. If the rate of flow is doubled, the amount of material (soil particles) of a given size that can be carried is increased thirty-two times.
3. If the rate of flow is doubled, the size of particles that can be carried is increased sixty-four times.

Small gullies can often be effectively checked by placing burlap bags of sod in them. Old fertilizer bags are excellent for this purpose because they are a loose mesh and contain sufficient plant foods to encourage rapid growth of grass. The bag is filled about half full of small sections of bluegrass sod, cut about six inches square and retaining considerable soil with the roots. If more than one bag is needed in a gully, place two or more to form a V with the point down the slope. This tends to keep the water toward the center and prevent spreading. Sod bags should be placed any time after wheat sowing.

Utilize weeds, straw, hay, corn stalks, sorghum bagasse or other available vegetation to fill incipient gullies. In all these cases the main aim is to check the run-off flow so the water has time to drop its load of soil and to reduce the erosive power of the flow.

Woven wire dams—woven fencing wire fastened to stout posts are useful to check broad, shallow gullies. Brush is useful for temporary checks in deep, large washes.

Where gullies are already eating back seriously into slopes, erect a wooden or metal flume to carry water from above the brink to a safer disposal below.

Plant or plan to plant black locust trees in deep gullies as a permanent check.

Ask the County Farm Agent to visit land where the gully problem cannot be solved by any of these simple methods. Land is a heritage; it cannot be jeopardized by any less than constant vigilance to prevent gullying and surface erosion.

GAVE PERJURED TESTIMONY; NOW HELD BY EX-CON

Freehold, N. J., Sept. 28 (P)—Mrs. Mary Pyle Kimmey, who was kidnapped from her bed beside her husband by a paroled ex-convict brandishing a pistol, once gave perjured testimony in the trial in which the man was convicted of violating the Mann Act, S. K. McKee, New Jersey FBI chief, said today.

McKee said the convict, whom he identified as Chalmers Howard Laubaugh, several years ago had forced another young woman, a Miss Shirley Shelton, who later testified at his trial, to accompany him from Anderson, Ind., to Washington, D. C. His action in forcing Miss Shelton to accompany him to Washington and their subsequent activities in the District of Columbia were responsible for his conviction on the white slave charges, McKee said.

Sentenced to one to four years in the D. C. reformatory at Lorton, Va., he only recently was paroled, McKee said, and a warrant charging violation of parole, due to his sensational kidnapping yesterday, was issued by the reformatory.

11-State Alarm

An 11-state alarm was sent out for Laubaugh and Mrs. Kimmey, whom McKee said were in a black Ford sedan of about 1937 vintage and believed headed for Washington.

Both Mrs. Kimmey, who was married nine months ago to U. S. Army Sergeant Glynn F. Kimmey of Huntsville, Texas, upon his return from overseas service, and Miss Shelton were tried and convicted for perjury resulting from their testimony at Laubaugh's Mann act trial, McKee said. Mrs. Kimmey now is under bond in connection with an appeal of her conviction.

McKee quoted Kimmey as saying Laubaugh was a former suitor of his wife.

Laubaugh also was convicted in 1928 at Youngstown, Ohio, for burglary and larceny, McKee said.

McKee described the kidnapping as having occurred Friday when Laubaugh went to the rooming house here operated by Mrs. Lola Muth and represented himself as an FBI agent, telling Mrs. Muth that Mrs. Kimmey was "dangerous." Going to the room of Mrs. Kimmey and her husband, automatic pistol drawn, the man ordered Mrs. Kimmey to dress. He slugged her remonstrating husband, Sgt. Glynn F. Kimmey, then fled with the protesting Mrs. Kimmey.

Less than half the cities of the United States of more than 1,000 population have airports.

A piece of twine tied to a door knob and burned should take odors out of the house.

Over 3,000 See Maroons Lose To Carlisle Hi, 26-0

Carlisle high's veteran football team smothered the Gettysburg Maroons here Friday night in a Southern Pennsylvania scholastic conference game 26-0 before the largest crowd ever to witness a game on the local field. Over 3,000 persons were in attendance. The one-game admission spot, so crowded at game time that contest was held up 15 minutes before fans to enter before game.

Efficient blocking and tackling proved disastrous for the Maroons time and again the Carlisle backs, apparently trapped, would be away from would-be tacklers advance for good yardage.

The Forney-men took to the air in the contest and a pair of interceptions proved fatal. Lowery intercepted a pass on his own four-yard stripe in the first period and led up to the Maroon 43 and from there the Green and White lashed downfield with Blosser wing over from the 1-yard mark in the second period.

Later in the same period Burkholder intercepted on the Carlisle and raced back to the Maroons' Sheffer pulling him down from behind. Shank went over from the a few plays later.

Fumble Hurts
A recovered fumble on the Maroons' 43 opened the way for another Carlisle tally in the third period. Blosser skirting left from the line to hit pass dirt. A pass, Blosser Eser, added the extra point.

Another fumble which gave the Carlisle the ball on the Gettysburg in the last seconds of the third quarter soon resulted in another tally. Washington scoring through round right end from the 5. Miller ded the point on a dropkick.

The Maroons played their best and of ball in the opening period when they kept most of the play. Carlisle territory due to a bit of punting on the part of Joe Hess. Gettysburg received the kickoff and returned to his 42. Carlisle led and then Hess punted to the sitters' 15. Kiehl was soon forced to punt and he kicked out on the Gettysburg 45. Two passes fell incomplete but Hess then connected with one to Sharrah and it was good for a first down on Carlisle's 17. A pass to Sterner failed and then Hess lost five yards at right end. On the next play Lowery intercepted on the Carlisle and raced to the Maroons' 43 and drive for three successive first downs.

Blosser Tallies
Shank and Heffelfinger sparked drive for three successive first downs to reach the 4-yard line as he quarter ended.

Two line thrusts by Shank were good for three yards and then Blosser went over on a line back Blosser's placement was wide and low. The Forney-men threatened again a few minutes later. An exchange of punts gave the Maroons the ball in their own 40. On a fake pass Hess broke through the right side of the line and ran to Carlisle's 25. Carlisle braced and took the ball on the 24. Blosser kicked out to Rodgers on the visitors' 42. Two passes fell incomplete but a third was naryed by Burkholder on the 17 and he scampered through a flock of Maroon players to reach Gettysburg's 23 where he was pulled to earth by Sheffer who duplicated Sharrah's feat of nabbing the carrier from the rear. With but a minute and a half remaining until intermission, Royer shot a short pass to Eser who lateraled to Blosser which was good for a first down on the 4. Shank went around right end for the score on the next play. Blosser's placement was again wide.

Halt One Drive
Early in the third period the visitors took the ball on a fumble on the Carlisle 43 and with Robinson, Shetter and Miller alternating, moved for three straight first downs to the 18. The Maroons flashed good form and took the ball on downs on the 10. After one running play failed Hess punted, the ball being blocked and going out on the Gettysburg 15. From that point Robinson raced around left end for the score.

Coaches Forney and Hendrickson made good use of their reserve material in the final period but the Carlisle lads managed to hold the upper hand throughout.

Carlisle rolled up 11 first downs, one through a penalty, while Gettysburg made but three. Twice the Maroons suffered penalties for having 12 men on the field on the new quick-substitution rule.

Next Friday the Forney-men journey to Hanover to meet the Nighthawks in another conference game.

COLLEGES OPEN GRID SEASONS IN TODAY'S TILTS

By NOEL MACCARRY
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
Collegiate football returns to the Pennsylvania sport scene today with pigskin frays scheduled for at least 15 Keystone state schools.

Four of the college squads left the state for the encounters: The Bucknell Bisons thundered up to Ithaca, N. Y., to meet Cornell; Pennsylvania Military academy tangles with Delaware university at Wilmington, Del.; the Villanova Wildcats face their third successive service team in as many weeks in engaging the Naval academy at Annapolis, Md., and Moravian college plays the University of Buffalo on the latter's field.

The other games scheduled include: Gettysburg vs. Lehigh at Bethlehem; Muhlenberg vs. Lafayette at Easton; West Virginia vs. Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh; Millersville Teachers vs. Albright college at Reading; Bethany vs. Washington & Jefferson at Lewistown.

Temple, SMU Tie
Lock Haven Teachers vs. Kutztown Teachers at Kutztown, and Westminster vs. Slippery Rock Teachers at Slippery Rock.

The Bloomsburg State Teachers college huskies are scheduled to open this year's season Monday night against Mansfield State Teachers at Bloomsburg.

In Philadelphia last night Temple university and Southern Methodist university repeated history by struggling to a 7-7 deadlock which was patterned after their 1942 6-6 stalemate at Dallas. As in their only previous encounter, the Owls and Mustangs each jammed a touchdown across in the first half and then spent the rest of the night checking each other's advances.

Other Night Games
The record season-opening crowd of 30,000 at Temple stadium saw the Owls score first on a 97-yard march in 15 plays. SMU came right back on the fourth play of the second quarter to square matters and both teams failed to produce thereafter.

At the same time, West Chester Teachers' college, also opening its home season under the arc-lights, defeated Drexel institute 12-0 for their second the teachers' second victory of the current season. Last week the West Chester gridsters tripped Moravian college 13-6 at Bethlehem.

In other Pennsylvania collegiate games last night, Scranton university took a 32-13 walloping by the University of Detroit at Detroit, Mich., and Thiel college handed the Butler Cubs, a semi-pro team, 26-0 shellacking at Greenville.

ZALE WINS IN SURPRISE KAYO

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, Sept. 28 (AP)—Tony Zale of Gary, Ind., still is the middle-weight fighting champion, even though they had to prop the old gaffer up and lead him around very carefully as he waded to the audience after his knockout of Rocky Graziano last night in Yankee Stadium.

Tony, the victor, looked like a man who had been in hand-to-hand combat with a buzzsaw, and somehow, much to his own astonishment, had come out ahead.

Up to the instant that Tony, a tired 32-year-old, landed the left hook that deposited Graziano for the count of 10 midway of the sixth round, most of the crowd banked in the Yankee ballyard would have bet their chance at a shirlon that the years were ready to take their toll and that the 160-pound crown was about to change hands.

Graziano, the rough, tough, right-hand-crazy kid from New York's East Side, had won three of the first five rounds, gruelling rounds that had sapped the strength of both fighters and had smeared their faces with blood. Zale, making the first defense of his title after four years in the navy, looked spent as they came together at the start of the sixth.

And then, suddenly, as they stood and slugged, with Graziano's multitude of admirers yelling for the 24-year-old sensation to finish it, Zale brought up what must have been about the last shot in his locker. It connected with Rocky's jaw, and Rocky hit the floor like a ton of brick.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, Sept. 28 (AP)—As he walked into the subway after last night's fight at Yankee Stadium, a veteran New York sports writer remarked: "I don't mind standing. I've been standing for the last six rounds." That just about covers the furious fistic doings between Tony Zale and Rocky Graziano. In the opinion of this observer, it must be classed among the great all-time fights. It had everything and Zale, by coming back to gain a knockout victory after absorbing Rocky's best punches, showed he's a real champion. Graziano looked to be in somewhat better shape than Tony when they cooled out in the dressing rooms but he didn't have any squawk about the sudden ending. "All I heard was eight, nine, ten," he said, "and it came up on me very fast." Only Rocky didn't use the word "very." He's still strictly East Side in language as well as action. As for Zale, he should get a job predicting results. He even called the round a day in advance.

SPORTSPOURRI

Yale's Vic Tataranowicz, a "rookie" this year, was regarded as the best footballer on the Yale campus in 1943, but as an army trainee he wasn't eligible for varsity competition. . . . The U. of Miami (Florida) staged a two-day press preview of its football team and invited all the sports editors in the state to attend—with all expenses paid. . . . Ohio State's gridgers haven't lost an opening game to a college team since 1894, when Buchtel college, now Akron U., beat the Bucks 12-6. They did lose an opener in 1943 to the Iowa Seahawks—who were a cut above the college of hard knocks.

TWISTING THE WORDS

When St. Norbert college of De Pere, Wis.—only about five miles from the Green Bay Packers—beat Central Teachers' of Stevens Point, 54-0, last week, St. Norbert blocked four punts. . . . Dave Yuenger, Green Bay sportswriter who figures that ought to be close to a record, suggests that instead of following the old "punt and a prayer" system, the teachers revised it by punting and then praying the kicks wouldn't be blocked.

GOOD DEED

Olympia, Wash., Sept. 28 (AP)—The state highway patrol reported this incident: Patrolman R. C. Caldwell helped an old lady across a busy street. She handed him a dime and said: "I know you Boy Scouts are not supposed to accept tips when you do your good deed, but you can put this in the troop treasury if you want to."

FLAG PLAYOFF LOOMS; CARDS DODGERS TIED

By RALPH RODEN

(Associated Press Sports Writer)
The first major league post season playoff to decide a pennant loomed today as the St. Louis Cardinals and the Brooklyn Dodgers headed into the final week-end deadlocked for first place in the National League.

The co-leaders, with identical won and lost records, have only two games left to play. Both will be at home, the Cards winding up the season with the Chicago Cubs tonight and tomorrow afternoon at Sportsman's park, and the Dodgers clashing twice with Boston's Braves at Ebbetts field.

Chicago's Cubs, themselves in a battle with the Braves for third place, shoved the Red Birds into a first place tie with the idle Brooks last night with a 7-2 victory.

Feller Ties Record

In the American league, Bob Feller, Cleveland Indians' great righthander, struck out six Detroit batters in a five inning relief stint to tie Rube Waddell's listed major league record of 343 strike-outs in a single season and defeat the Tigers 9 to 8. A recent research, however, revealed that Waddell in 1904, actually fanned 349—more than the official record credits him with.

Tex Hughson staggered through to his 20th victory as the Boston Red Sox downed the Washington Senators, 5-4.

The Chicago White Sox moved to within a half game of the fourth place Senators by taking both ends of a twin bill from the St. Louis Browns, 7-3 and 8-3.

In the only other National league game, the Cincinnati Reds, behind the five hit pitching of Joe Beggs, shut out the Pittsburgh Pirates, 8-0.

LITTLESTOWN HI WINS AT SOCCER

Littlestown High school won, 2 to 0, Friday evening in the first county high school soccer league game to be played since before the war.

Although a number of the players had never seen a game before, their work was described as "excellent" in consideration of the fact that soccer has not been played as a regular sport for years.

Robert, outside left for Littlestown, sent the pellet through the goal for the first tally less than a minute before the end of the first half. The score came as a result of a scrimmage in front of the goal.

The second score was more spectacular with A. Bair, Littlestown center, moving forward to meet a corner kick and with a body blow send it between the uprights.

The lineups:

Arendtsville	Pos.	Littlestown
Allison	C.	A. Bair
Kimple	I. R.	Boyd
Lupp	I. R.	King
Schlosser	O. L.	Robert
Singley	O. R.	G. Bair

Sheaffer	L. H.	Reed
Lower	R. H.	Harner
Boien	L. F.	Miller

Substitutions: Littlestown, Walt; Arendtsville, Garretson, Wierman, Pitzer; Goals by Robert, A. Bair; referee, Hartzell.

Grid Crowd Sets Record

Friday night's football battle between Gettysburg high school and Carlisle set a new record for attendance at the local high school field, school officials announced today.

A total of 3,200 attended the game. The previous record crowd, 3,000, attended the contest between Gettysburg and Hanover high schools last year.

ST. FRANCIS IS 12 TO 7 VICTOR OVER DELONE HI

St. Francis Preparatory school, near Spring Grove, won a 12 to 7 decision over Delone high Friday evening at McSherrytown.

All of the scoring took place in the second period, starting with a 91-yard race across the field that netted St. Francis first blood. Delone was on the St. Francis 15-yard line when Bunty attempted a pass for Delone. Jim Breen intercepted the pass and then broke loose for the goal line. He outran the Squires for 91 yards to cross for the first St. Francis tally.

A short time later a Delone drive reached the 10-yard line. Bunty faded for a pass and a St. Francis player batted the ball out of his hands. The ball flew free to Rider of the Squires, who grabbed it and took the ball across for a touchdown. Rider crashed through center for the point giving Delone a 7 to 6 lead.

Delone then kicked off with St. Francis recovering on its 44-yard line. After first down Tom Breen, brother of the Jim Breen who had streaked for the first tally for St. Francis, took a pass and ran for the second score.

McSherrytown outscored the visitors in the matter of downs, pushing through for 14 as compared to St. Francis' three.

THIS TEMPLE

In my teens I heard a wonderful lecturer by the name of Dr. John B. DeMotte. I heard him many times, and many things that he said have stayed with me. He spoke of the human body as a Temple, and said that we should have an inward reverence for it. This body of ours is also spoken of as "the Temple of the Living God."

Within the confines of this wonderful body Temple is the sanctuary of all our dreams, our hopes, our faith, our spiritual aspirations, and within which our silent meditations take form and substance. God is within this Temple—even when we don't invite him to be our guest there. All the beauty of this earth, and all the experiences of the human race, have archives there, to a greater or less degree. Our hungers germinate there. And within its secret walls is an altar for silent prayer.

You can always tell what kind of a Temple people live in by the look in their eyes, by the words that flow from their lips, and by the outward deeds that emanate from this Temple of theirs. How many times we meet people who seem to live in a very beautiful Temple. And we say silently to ourselves that we would like to enter and be inspired by moments spent within.

Some people are always gathering flowers, and accumulating various forms of beauty, with which to make this Temple of theirs fragrant and soul heartening. A place for quiet, happy meditation, and self-appraisal. A place where sorrow is appeased, and where the disappointments and broken blossoms of hope and faith are replaced with the promise of brighter days.

"As a man thinketh, so is he"—and so this is the Temple cleansed in which he lives and has his daily being. Oliver Wendell Holmes undoubtedly had this sort of a Temple in mind when he wrote those beautiful lines in his poem, "The Chambered Nautilus." I quote a part.

"Build thee more stately mansions, O my soul,
As the swift seasons roll!
Leave thy low-vaulted past!
Let each new Temple, nobler than the last,
Shut thee from heaven with a dome more vast,
Till thou at length art free,
Leaving thine outgrown shell by life's unresting sea!"

Earle Talks to 4,000 at Rally of Democrats: Enthusiastic endorsement of President Roosevelt and his policies was given Saturday afternoon by a corps of speakers headed by Governor George H. Earle at the Democratic rally and ox roast at the South mountain fair grounds. A crowd estimated at about 4,000 persons listened for two hours and a half to their governor, party candidates and guest speakers.

The governor was the second speaker on the program. With District Attorney John P. Butt, Democratic county chairman presiding, Congressman Harry L. Haines was presented first to the crowd. The governor and these other speakers followed: Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, Pittsburgh; State Senator John S. Rice; F. Clair Ross for state treasurer; State Senator Warren S. Roberts for auditor general and Charles H. Richter, for representative in the general assembly.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was attended by her sister, Miss Alice Snyder, the maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Jane Tipton and Miss Pauline Hoover.

The driver who thinks he can drink and drive safely is pretty likely to be all wet.

Foiled By Leaky Brakes

A leaky wheel brake cylinder does not always show up in lost pedal position, as many drivers seem to believe. Just the other day the pedal of my own car seemed to have built up a resistance. There was every indication that pressure was increasing in the lines because of a clogged vent in the master cylinder, but what we found was just what you would expect if the pedal had become spongy. One of the rear brake cylinders had started leaking because its pistons stuck and did not return to their off position.

Low on Know-How

Motorists who are honest with themselves are reporting to me an increasing awareness that they have lost considerable driving know-how as a result of the war years of relative inactivity. It is unquestionably one of the prime causes for the high accident rate. From where I am viewing the matter—and this is behind the steering wheel—the answer seems to lie in accelerating experience a wheel, plus constant consciousness of the fact that few operators are as skillful today as they were five years ago. This is particularly evident in the lack of desire to drive fast and in reports from the automobile clubs to the effect that tourists are more interested than ever before in avoiding heavy city traffic. One young lad is more frank about it. He just says he is a bit awed by the metropolitan rush. A chap who drove an army vehicle all over Germany has had quite a time getting accustomed to proper handling of the family's deluxe car. You can just picture what some of the timid souls feel about driving and why they haven't been doing too well. We need further schooling, better instruction—and practice.

Have You a Heavy Foot?

There's no fooling about this idea of some drivers having a heavier foot than others. The inertia of foot and leg actually serve as a brake booster, and in this process the weight of your extremities is a factor. Also it is a scientific fact that the quicker the stop the more effective this automatic action. In a test the driver offered only 27 pounds of intentional pressure on the brake pedal; the other 62 pounds being supplied by inertia.

Mechanic Joe Speaking

"Of course the boss would probably like to say 'Hello' and ask about your catch of fish or comment on your tanned brow when you first get back from the annual vacation, but one of the important post-vacation steps to take the car to a service station for a complete check-up. I have been in this game long enough to be convinced that it is often more important than putting the car in shape for the vacation.

"Too often the attitude is that since the car isn't to be used for more than round-town driving for a few weeks anything that is wrong with it can slide. That is an invitation to serious trouble. If only because it needs a thorough greasing, fresh oil and tightening it should be treated to service. Vacations are tough on cars. There's no excuse for making them tough on your pocketbook, too."

Toward Better Steering

From England comes word of invention of a new system of steering whereby the outer wheel is given a boost in speed when the car goes into a turn. Meanwhile it may be useful to know that if you want to get quicker steering response the proper caper is to hold the wheel nearer the top. In this way you can pull down on one side or the other for a sharper change in the car's course or for correction of its tendency to veer from a straight line.

On Tracing A Noise

Next time you have a perplexing noise in the car remember to feel for it rather than trust to your hearing. It is the easier way.

Watch a skilled mechanic checking for a chassis noise and he starts feeling parts while someone is bouncing the car to bring on the noise. Sound comes from vibration, and the latter is easily detected by touch. Any part that is capable of making a noise is likely to set up vibration that is plainly felt. Moreover, you can put your hand right on many car parts which would be inaccessible to your car.

They Know Their Stuff

Some very useful philosophy can be culled from the comments of the younger fry who are parading discarded cars. Talked with one the other day who wasn't a bit perturbed when I reminded him that the engine appeared to be overheating. "Don't let it worry you," he retorted. "My dad's engine overheats too, but he doesn't see the steam leaking out around the filler cap because it's under the hood."

Which immediately reminded me of the many cases of overheating which pass unnoticed because cooling systems are equipped with a pressure cap. Not until pressure builds up to around four pounds does the overflow open up, and when that happens, brother you know you have a hot potato on your hands.

Who was it said that when things are out of sight they are apt to be out of mind?

Avoiding An Error

Ever return to your car to find you have left the motor running? One way to avoid this is to form the habit of setting the hand brake and then putting the car in low gear or reverse. If the engine is still running it will then stall when you take your foot off the clutch pedal. Whether to leave the gears in mesh is always a question because it is a known fact that if another car strikes yours a good blow, when yours is in gear, the transmission may be damaged. So it will depend largely on where you happen to be parking. But by following the rule of first placing the car in gear you at least obviate any possibility of letting the engine run. Not all engines are switched off by key and for that reason even the habit of reaching for the key doesn't always serve to insure against leaving the engine running.

Strike Out These Two

There ought to be a law against two things that invariably are not drummed into the heads of those who so willingly give free service at filling stations. Error number one is failure to put more than the normal pressure of air in the spare. Unless a spare is somewhat over-inflated it will likely be underinflated when you need it.

Second boner is adding water to the radiator when the engine is cold. This failure to consider expansion is certain to cause water to syphon out the overflow when the car gets into action.

AMERICAN CHILD FINDS LIFE IN BERLIN STRANGE

(Editor's Note: The following story, written by Kathleen Kasischke, 11-year-old daughter of Associated Press Staffer Richard Kasischke, describes an American child's life in occupied Berlin.)

By KATHLEEN KASISCHKE
Berlin, Sept. 28 (AP)—When Mama and I came here to join Daddy August 1, and moved into a house in the suburb of Zehlendorf, it seemed at first as if we hadn't left America. Our block looked like almost any other block in America—nearly.

But after a while I felt something like Alice after she stepped through the looking glass. There were many strange things. When I walked a little way down the street I saw a house with only one wall standing. They told me it was bombed. Near the wall was what at first seemed to be a brown flag on a pole, but when you look again you see that it is a third-story radiator on its pipe.

Lots of other things come strange like that. I can't imagine Detroit's downtown buildings smashed like Berlin's. In the suburbs here we see shell marks on houses. Detroit had lots of cars but we see mostly jeeps here.

Army Trucks For Buses

I am now going to summer play school while they are getting the regular winter school ready. I go afternoons with nearly 80 other children aged six to 14. Army trucks used for school buses pick us up at our street corners. The buses are driven by G. I. soldiers and we have a lot of fun kidding them.

In our school are several Chinese children, some Polish, Danish and Czechoslovakian children. Some of these can speak German but not English but we are teaching them lots of words on the bus. The Chinese boy's father is a general but he does not "pull rank" like the American boy whose father is a colonel does on Jimmy, whose father is only a lieutenant. Many girls at school are getting jackets cut down from their fathers' old army blouses. I want one, too. Army belts are the rage here, too.

I've been playing with some German children in the neighborhood but not much until I can learn to talk German and understand them. We are learning some in school and may also be taught some Russian later.

Misses Bubble Gum

After school hours I sometimes go shopping with Mama, but we don't call it a grocery store, but a "commissary" set up by the army. There isn't much fresh milk here but I get chocolate bars and chewing gum, not from the drug store but from the army post exchange. They have no bubble gum. However, the army has some ice cream soda bars here that we visit.

For my birthday three weeks ago the officer at the press club gave me a party and some pretty German dolls. The orchestra played and I met the former Prince Wilhelm and his Princess, Auguste Victoria. She sang two songs for me and everyone stopped to listen to her.

I received a number of gifts, including silk scarves from Paris and handkerchiefs and a music box from Switzerland. Also a bicycle which cost $260 second-hand. But I learned later this was in occupation money—2,600 marks.

About half the nation's population turns back the clock tonight and goes back to Standard Time.

Daylight saving ends at 2 a. m. tomorrow for everyone but residents in Maine where farmers will continue to use the extra hour of sunshine in harvesting their potato crop.

Twenty-three states, which did not go on daylight time, will be unaffected.

U.N. GROUP SAYS ATOMIC CONTROL IS POSSIBILITY

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

Lake Success, N. Y., Sept. 28 (AP)—Scientists of the United Nations atomic energy commission declared today that effective control of atomic energy, which the world is seeking to harness for peace, is possible on the basis of available scientific facts.

The finding was made public when the United Nations released a 22-page report adopted unanimously Thursday by the scientists who make up the commission's scientific and technical committee. The report will be submitted to the commission's committee No. 2 (political) at a meeting here next Wednesday.

"With regard to the question posed by Committee 2, 'Whether effective control of atomic energy is possible,' we do not find any basis in the available scientific facts for supposing that effective control is not technologically feasible," the report said.

Feasibility Not Discussed

Having thus discharged the task assigned by the political group the scientists added:

"Whether or not it is politically feasible is not discussed or implied in this report, nor is there any recommendation of the particular system or systems by which effective control can be achieved."

The report was the first international finding on atomic energy to be adopted unanimously and was hailed by Bernard M. Baruch, United States member of the commission, as a "forward motion" in the commission's deliberations.

Still Far Apart

The scientists, by failing to make recommendations, however, did little to resolve the sharp differences between the United States and Russian plans for controlling atomic energy. At present, the United States and Russia still are far apart on the problem of the veto right as applied to atomic control, on methods of inspection and control, and on just when existing stocks of atomic bombs will be destroyed and their manufacture stopped.

Those, and others of serious nature, are questions which the atomic energy commission itself must handle.

The report was made up of six chapters. The scientists, who acknowledged they dealt with non-secret and previously published information, said that in approaching the assignment they kept in mind that the problem was not solely what to do about atomic energy as a weapon "but rather the entire problem of what use shall be made of a discovery so great that its consequences will affect the future of human society."

ever I reverse on an upgrade. I can reverse on the level a hundred times a day and never have any trouble. Is this serious? P. A. H.

A. Many cars have this tendency. It is largely due to a combination of the fact that the rear-end weight is tipped forward when the car is backing up and the increased power of the engine when in reverse gear.

Q. When gasoline is ignited in an engine does it explode or does the gas burn, the heat forcing the pistons down? I always thought the latter was true, but have heard some different opinions lately. L. Z.

A. I am glad to see such fundamental questions coming into vogue again. Gas vapor, fired under compression, burns rather than explodes. But it burns furiously. It is the expansion pressure of the burning gas that drives the pistons down, not the heat.

Q. Would you recommend an oil filter for my car? The mileage at present is 23,000. Engine is in good condition, but the oil does not seem to stay clean. R. R. L.

Asks Congress To Stop 'Meddling'

Bradford, Pa., Sept. 28 (AP)—Rep. L. H. Gavin, Republican from the 20th Pennsylvania Congressional district, was on record today with an appeal to Congress to avoid "meddling" with the oil industry.

Gavin told 100 engineers from four states at a meeting of the oil and gas section of the engineers' society of western Pennsylvania to keep the oil clean and protect the engine against early wear. A test revealed the cars with no filter showed four times as much dirt and abrasive in the oil at the end of a 1000-mile period as when equipped with filters.

Q. What would cause the carburetor of my car to load up? I have tried leaning out the idling mixture, but this doesn't seem to help matters. The engine does not run too hot. Wm. L. L. Jr.

A. The float level is too high. As the lip of the float lever wears this condition gradually develops.

Mr. Russell will answer questions regarding the safe care and operation of your car. Just address him at 254 Fern street, Hartford, Connecticut, and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for a personal reply.

UNESCO FACES HUGE PROBLEM FOR HUMANITY

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Sept. 28 (AP)—This piece won't quicken your pulse unless you happen to be deeply interested in education and the exchange of ideas and information among nations.

The problem is long-standing. The solution, if there ever is one, is long-range. And it will be slow coming. But at least a start is being made, first of its kind in the world. Here the story:

There is an international organization called UNESCO, short for United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. Congress voted for us to take part in it.

Better Understanding
This government will send representatives, not yet chosen, to UNESCO's conference in Paris in November. UNESCO's purpose is to create better understanding among peoples of different nations.

International cooperation on things like education, exchange of scientific developments, and spreading of ideas and information.

At San Francisco, when the United Nations was being organized in 1945, some people thought that in the long run UNESCO might turn out to be the most valuable thing done there.

Maybe so. If all the countries, which are members of UNESCO sincerely work together, they'll do good. Even if they don't UNESCO still may be able to do a little good.

Huge Task
Spreading ideas, education and information is a huge task since most areas of the earth still are hidden with ignorance. And information is not permitted to flow freely in all countries.

But when our delegates go to UNESCO's November meeting in Paris, what will they propose?

When it approved our joining UNESCO, Congress also authorized the creation in this country of a body to advise the government on what we should try to do in UNESCO.

This special body is called the National Commission on Educational, Scientific and Cultural Cooperation. Its members—there are 90—are top American scholars, educators and intellectual leaders.

Get Scrutiny from State Dept.
This commission has just finished four-day meeting here. That meeting was the first of its kind ever held in this country, since the commission is the first organization of its kind ever created here.

It will have other meetings, but this one it made recommendations on what it thought our delegates to UNESCO should seek. The recommendations went to the state department which sponsors the commission.

Here are some things the commission said before it adjourned Thursday night:

1. It thinks an international conference should be called next year to lay down standards for revising school textbooks to rid them of prejudices and misunderstandings.

Quite Some Jobs
(This would be a major job. Textbooks of a country traditionally have glorified that country's history at the expense of all other countries.)

2. It wants UNESCO to make real use of the press, radio and motion pictures to promote understanding among peoples and nations.

3. It wants the United Nations to set up a worldwide radio network capable of bringing educational and cultural programs to all countries.

4. It wants UNESCO to work for the removal of blocks to free flow of information. (This is quite a job, too.)

5. It wants a world-wide lending library for countries whose libraries ever had good libraries.

CONSOLIDATION OF LABOR SEEN

Atlantic City, N. J. (AP)—The reactivation of the United Mine Workers of America (AFL) with the American Federation of Labor was the "first step" toward "eventual consolidation" of the nation's labor organizations, officials of the Union's district 50 said yesterday.

John L. Lewis, who, as president of the UMW, led the union back to the AFL last winter after a 12-year separation as an independent and as a CIO affiliate, was raised in the officers' report for winning this year additional vacation pay, wage increases, portal pay and government-forced safety regulations for miners.

The union leader is in a Washington hospital, recovering from an operation and is not expected to be able to attend District 50's convention, which runs until Tuesday.

The officers' report on the reactivation with the AFL said "the value of coordinated strength of all organized labor will have a tremendous impact on legislation, representation and defeat of the self-centered ambitions of vacillating politicians."

SAY NATION'S HOPE IN GOP

Philadelphia, Sept. 28 (AP)—The only hope of restoring a semblance of responsible party government lies in a Republican victory in the Congressional elections, says Senator Owen Brewster (R-Me.).

"And a Republican vote is a vote for the Byrnes-Vandenberg foreign policy which is the best hope for peace; any other vote is a vote for Russia," Senator Brewster told the closing session yesterday of the fourth biennial convention of the national federation of women's Republican clubs.

The Democratic party, he declared is guaranteeing only "frustration" through a "hopelessly" divided Congress. Their candidates are "all hues of the rainbow," the Senator told the women's final forum, with "red peppers at the extreme left, the believers in white supremacy at the right in between are the neutral hues who would be all things to the various factions to whom they appeal."

Johnstown, Sept. 28 (AP)—The Conemaugh borough school board and its 31 striking teachers sought a way today to end the week-long shut-down on the Conemaugh school by a wage dispute.

A joint meeting of the teachers and school board was set for this morning at which the board was expected to present full details of a compromise wage increase offer.

The teachers, who are asking $300 a year more, held a closed session yesterday but withheld what action was taken on the settlement proposal.

COMMUNICATION

Dear Sir:
In regards to your article appearing in your newspaper recently concerning the noises and activities in town at late hours, I agree 100%. Only it is mildly stated, in comparison with the neighborhood I live in.

Not only on weekends, but every holiday, week-nite, and all day Sunday there is a football or baseball game in "full swing." There is not one property in the block that is protected from B.B. Guns, stone throwing, smashing thru corner properties in gardens and crushing down vegetable plants in search of footballs. Profane language is used to the fullest extent when any protest is made. Pavements are smeared with dirt, stones and grass. Bicycles through the sidewalk while the "game is on."

One neighbor had a windshield riddled with holes from gunshot which had come through garage windows. Another neighbor had every window pane broken, even the sash destroyed. When he raised turkeys one year, he was called from work to come home and find his turkeys on the fence, and the turkey pen open.

After the game is over, there is the usual whistling, yelling, calling last minute details concerning the following day's activities. "Banging on the mail-box," ringing their bicycle bell is another pet diversion.

During the summer, birds have no chance to sing, and I'll admit, I like to hear a bird sing, but when they load their guns and aim, a bird has little chance for life.

The hospital being quite near, we naturally thought they would have sense enough to calm down a bit. I suppose we need a police force to visit this territory and give our nerves a rest.

Window peeping, tampering with our meter box on the house indicates that boys doing this need more control than they've been getting.

Up until today, the only relief there is, is when Boy Scout meetings are held. Could they be arranged every evening, I wonder?

One neighbor has seriously considered barbed-wire on his fence. Years ago, the C.C.C. boys were blamed for noise, as well as the college shirt-tail parties, but they could learn much from these boys, aged from nine to fourteen years.

There seemed to be more law and order in town when "Al" Fox and "Andy" Weikert were on duty alone. Now we seem to have a "Battalion" on our police force and never can one be found when we need one. Have the police been near the Delecta around eleven o'clock on Friday evenings lately? Why haven't they discovered anyone since the curfew has been in effect?

Very sincerely yours,
A Taxpayer.

MAJOR TEAMS PLAYING TODAY

New York, Sept. 28 (AP)—With such standout attractions as Notre Dame-Illinois, Army-Oklahoma, Indiana-Michigan and California-Wisconsin, today's college football menu offers virtually all of the major teams across the nation in action.

And with the 1946 grid campaign still competing with baseball for the fans' attention, this late-September afternoon promises to see the autumn sport well on its way to some new attendance records.

President Truman takes time from the cares of his office to head an anticipated crowd to 25,000 that will see Army dig in to repel a West Point invasion by Oklahoma's Sooners in what may well be the first test since the Cadets were beaten by Navy in 1943.

Put easily the No. 1 game in the nation is the clash between Illinois and Notre Dame at Champaign, Ill., where a capacity crowd of 70,000 is expected. The Irish, reputedly loaded to the gunwales with talent, come up against a club that is not exactly short on material in a contest that pits two potential national champions.

Michigan, a Big Nine favorite along with Illinois and Ohio State, takes on last year's champion, Indiana, chastened by last Saturday's defeat by little Cincinnati. Iowa is paired with Purdue in another Big Nine feature.

FLOOD CREST ROLLS SOUTH

San Antonio, Tex., Sept. 28 (AP)—

The crest of the death-dealing, destructive flood that left six known dead and seven persons missing here rolled south toward the Gulf of Mexico today.

The United States Weather Bureau warned lowland residents along the course of the winding San Antonio river to evacuate to higher ground.

The high water swept through San Antonio as a flash flood late Thursday night and early yesterday. The Weather Bureau expected the flood's crest to flatten as it spread over the widening river valley.

San Antonio faced a major clean-up and rehabilitation problem. Dr. Dudley A. Reekie, city health director, urged residents of waterlogged areas to take special sanitary precautions.

Physical damage to buildings, streets, household furnishings, and store stocks in San Antonio was variously estimated at from $1,000,000 to $8,000,000. Water poured in to the basements of many downtown business buildings.

Chapter 16

Morrissey was not hot and bothered; he was brisk and determined and his words were friendlier than his voice.

"How are things, Marty? I heard about you going down for questioning. I see you came through without getting hurt."

"They didn't have anything to go on except a suspicion that I wasn't cooperating. But you aren't here to talk about my life and loves; you're on the trail of that letter you gave me."

"Did the cops get it?"

Martin shook his head. "Cloud has a picture of it, made at the Record office, though. He wants to get his hands on the original. It's too bad about that mistake."

"It was the girl," Morrissey said. "I told Cloud she'd made a mistake. I remember what you said."

"Where's that letter, Marty?"

"I had to put it where I can't lay hands on it in a hurry. If everything goes right I'll try to get it for you later."

"Tell me where it is and I'll send someone after it."

"No."

Morrissey leaned forward abruptly. "How much do you want? I've already dropped plenty in this deal, but I'll go for another thousand. Take it or leave it."

"Just for that," Martin said, "I may never give it back to you. What I dislike most about Ennis is that he thinks he can bribe me. I haven't got anything against having money, but I am particular how I get it."

"I want the letter, Marty. Get that straight, because I'm not fooling."

Martin was nearing the point of exasperation.

"We're not getting anywhere," he said. "I've outlined the situation as plainly as I know how. You'll have to make the best of it."

"Be good to yourself, Marty. You know how much trouble I can make if someone crosses me. You wouldn't want any more problems than you've already got."

"You're not being smart," Morrissey stood up, buttoning his coat; neither his face nor his eyes betrayed the slightest emotion. "Most people think twice before turning on me."

Martin glowered at the door after it had closed behind Morrissey. He had made a dangerous enemy, but far from being upset about it, he was glad. He had more than a slight suspicion that Morrissey had murdered Searle; and now that an open break between them had been brought about by the gambler himself, he would enjoy trying to prove it.

Ten minutes after Morrissey had gone the phone rang again. Interrupted in pleasant speculations charting the successive steps by which his

PREDICTS MORE
BEEF, PORK IN LATE OCTOBER

Washington, Sept. 28 (P)—Geoffrey Baker, Deputy OPA Administrator, predicted today the meat shortage will begin to ease up in two to four weeks.

At the same time, he contended that price control on meat "does not reduce the supply" during this period of scarcity, but actually increase it.

Baker said in a radio address today that "there is good reason to expect supplies in both beef and pork beginning with the latter part of October."

As for the effect of price controls on supply, Baker had this to say:

Fattened Livestock

"Price control on meat does not reduce the total supply that will be available to consumers until the end of the short supply period.

"On the contrary, it should actually increase the total amount. With predictable prices, farmers and ranchers will be able to plan for better herds and droves.

"The livestock that will come to market will be adequately fattened. Each individual animal will provide more meat x x x under ceiling prices, you'll not only get as many steaks and roasts as you would without them, you'll actually get more."

There is a shortage now, Baker continued, because "we are paying the price for the glut of meat we had during July and August when we had no price control."

Chairman Roy L. Thompson said the Price Control Board will "act promptly" if it gets an official appeal for removal of meat ceilings—but he doesn't expect one before November.

He gave no indication of what the board's decision might be, saying he does not believe it "proper" that he make any predictions.

As for the current meat shortage, Thompson predicted it will continue for "some time."

Cut Army Supply

The decontrol chief expressed these views to an interviewer as—

1. Some western cattlemen disagreed with President Truman's forecast that the normal fall run of grass-fed cattle should increase the supply of beef soon.

2. Government food officials said that if the military's meat requisitioning is continued at the new reduced rate the rest of this year, the armed services will get no more than perhaps 3.5 per cent of the total output.

3. OPA, yielding to a torrent of industry protests, announced it will scrap its order restoring June 30 price ceilings on restaurant meat meals. Higher ceilings will be set next week.

In predicting meat supplies will remain skimpy for a while, Thompson said it "will take some time" for chops and steaks to reach housewives after the run of livestock to market finally gets under way.

Thompson said he is in agreement with President Truman that present scarcity is due to heavy slaughter of cattle and hogs during July and August when controls were off.

The board chairman said it would be at least November and perhaps December before packers' petitions for decontrol, now being prepared, could reach the three-man high court.

The petitions go first to the Agriculture Department, which will follow a time schedule set up by Congress in considering them.

'Coma Mother' And
Babe Ready For Trip

Allentown, Pa., Sept. 28 (P)—Mrs. Rhoda Wenger, 23-year-old "coma mother," is scheduled to be flown to Hamilton field, San Francisco, Calif., today in an army ambulance hospital plane.

Her husband Sgt. Leland Wenger, 23, will accompany Mrs. Wenger, as will their nine-pound daughter, Karen Heth, born five months ago at Allentown hospital although her mother has been in a state of "suspended death" in the hospital since an automobile accident last November.

Sgt. Wenger, seriously injured in the same accident, is being transferred from Walter Reed hospital, Washington, to Letterman General hospital, San Francisco, and Mrs. Wenger is being taken to the University of California hospital.

The hospital plane has been especially equipped to make Mrs. Wenger comfortable and a full day's supply of formula for the baby has been prepared, officials at the Allentown hospital said.

President Truman
Flies To Grid Game

Washington, Sept. 28 (P)—President Truman took off today for the military academy at West Point, where he will attend the Army-Oklahoma football game.

The president's big plane vanished in a heavy overcast almost immediately after rising from National airport.

Airport officials said the weather was all right for taking off but landings were suspended. Clear weather was reported at the ship's destination, Stewart Field, N. Y.

Before boarding the plane, Mr. Truman shook hands with Col. Henry T. Myers, regular pilot of the "Sacred Cow," and posed for news photographers.

INDIANS SULK
ON DAY NATION
HONORS THEM

Polson, Mont., Sept. 28 (P)—Today is American Indian day, set aside to honor the aborigines of this nation, but the country's 500,000 tribesmen aren't in a celebrating mood. They're peeved at Uncle Sam.

In the northwestern Montana Flathead Indian Reservation community on the southern shore of vast Flathead lake, young, well-educated Stephen De Mers, a Salish tribesman who is Secretary of the American Indians of Montana, tells you:

"I don't believe the Indians will do much celebrating today. They're not in the mood. They're fed up with the guff they've been getting for 300 years."

Don't Like Promises

To point out the feelings of the Indians, the blond war veteran explains that the projected construction of Garrison dam, a North Dakota reclamation project, has brought heated protests because the lake would flood out hundreds of Assiniboines and Sioux.

"The government says those tribesmen will be compensated and given other land, but the Indians are leery of government promises. It has been making promises to us for years—better schools, hospitals, hundreds of other things—but those promises have not been lived up to. In this instance, the Fort Bert-hold, (N.Dak.) reservation people feel they will be taken for another ride."

"And here's another thing," he says. "Our war veterans, who fought like the devil for democracy, are discriminated against in getting loans and other things under the G.I. Bill of Rights, because of certain silly restrictions on Indians."

U. S. Indians figure Uncle Sam owes them three billion dollars in unpaid obligations, and they're watching closely a new Indian claims commission, authorized recently by Congress. The red men hope the president will appoint three men to the commission who will give them "at least a break."

CITIES FIND NEW TAX REVENUES

Harrisburg, Sept. 28 (P)—Taxation of utilities and cigarettes—and the licensing of pinball and vending machines—was asked as sources of revenue for cities in resolutions adopted by the Pennsylvania league of third-class cities at its 47th convention here last night.

The league, in other approval proposals, called upon the Commonwealth to foot the bill in the construction and maintenance of state highways through third class cities and to bear one third of the cost of installing sewage disposal plants.

By a narrow vote, the group beat down a resolution asking an amendment to the liquor laws making it optional with retail beer and liquor license holders whether they shall serve food in their establishments. Under the law now, they are required to have food for at least 30 people and seating accommodations for 40 persons.

Walter E. Greenwood, Coatesville city solicitor, was reelected president of the league along with these other officers: Charles R. Barber, Erie mayor, as vice president; Chester E. Rogers, Easton city clerk, as secretary, and Louis G. Heinle, New Kensington, treasurer.

Trustees named were John J. Mullen, Clairton; Arthur L. Schwing, Johnstown; Leo C. Williamson, Williamsport; Con McCole, Wilkes-Barre, and Brighton C. Diefenderfer, Allentown.

Littlestown

Members and former members of the Windsor Shoe company force were entertained Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Altoff. Mrs. Altoff, the former Mary M. Weaver, was a former employee in the Windsor office. Refreshments were served, and a social hour enjoyed. Those present were: Mrs. Chester Barrick, Mrs. Clair Trostle, Mrs. Kenneth Bortner, Louella Harnet, Gladys Dutler, Mary Sentz, Elizabeth Mehrling, Kathleen Mehrling, Ruth Rebert, Mildred Appler, and Dorothy Appler.

The Ladies' Aid society of St. John's Lutheran church will sponsor a Tom Brenneman show Thursday evening, October 31, in the social hall of the church.

The Littlestown post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will hold a public party in the post home on Lombard street next Friday night.
